

Purchasing XM radio was a choice I made in order to have a broader selection of news, music, and information on my car radio. I am paying for this option and I do not see how this is any competition to local stations that are free to the listener. I do not see how this is different than purchasing cable TV. Our local stations on TV are still surviving - and if I choose to listen or watch a local station I can do so. Limiting my option to purchase further stations is not productive for anyone.
